

Howdy Detectives,

This horseshoe shaped range has made me feel like I am in an old western movie. But a cold old western movie, this place is covered in glaciers and is home to the tallest mountain in North America.

*Your Buck-a-roo,
The Runaway*

Hello from the Silver State

Dear Detectives,

I have spent the last month and half traveling from Mexico all the way to Canada~ it has not been an easy journey traveling over these jagged mountains. I was surprised to learn that these mountains are actually much younger than other mountains in the US.

Sincerely- The Runaway

P.S. I drove pass the school on my way to Canada.

Dearest Detectives,

*You should really come and visit these mountains.
The tallest peak is over 6,000 feet high. They may be old and worn down with very few passes, but they run from Alabama to Canada (NE to SW) and are a barrier to the interior.*
